

THE PUTNEY COLUMN.

Death of Mrs. W. C. Crawford.

The funeral of Mrs. Walter C. Crawford, whose death was announced in The Phoenix last week, was held at the house of James Crawford Saturday afternoon, Dec. 11, at 2 o'clock. The burial was in Maple Grove cemetery. Mrs. Crawford's maiden name was Martha Isabella, and she was born in Winchester, N. H., Oct. 30, 1829. She married Mr. Crawford April 27, 1859, and her husband lived in Putney ever since. Most of her life and her marriage was spent in Winchester. She had been in ill health over a year, but her condition was not considered alarming until within a few months. She was taken to her bed after about Sept. 1. She was carried to the Newcomb, Mass., hospital Nov. 16, where an operation was performed. The operation itself was successful, but it left Mrs. Crawford weak and unable to rally, and she died Dec. 8 of pneumonia. Throughout her illness Mrs. Crawford was remarkably cheerful and patient, and she had no fear but that she would regain her health and return to her home and family. Besides her husband she leaves two little daughters five and two years old respectively.

Mr. Cobb is assisting his brother, Norman, in the blacksmith shop in Putney Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith of Dover, N. H., visited at Edwin Sanderson's the last of last week.

Station Agent R. R. Fenn was in Springfield, Mass., Saturday to attend a meeting of railroad telegraphers.

The men of the Baptist church served a supper Friday evening. The occasion was a success socially and financially.

Rev. C. J. Harris of the Congregational church is at work upon a newspaper, the first number of which he will issue in a few days. Mr. Harris owns the type and press formerly owned by C. W. Brooks, who published a newspaper a number of years ago.

The following is from the Amherst, Mass., correspondence of the Springfield Republican: "The Amherst Fair, which was crowded during the week of meetings of the state board of agriculture. Many of the guests have occupied rooms outside of the hotel. The visiting members are generous in their praise of the way that Landford Kendrick has attended to their wants during the week."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson G. Treadway were given a reception upon their arrival in Shelter Island, N. Y., last week. They were met by a brass band and a large number of citizens, after which a roast turkey supper was served. It was expected that Mr. and Mrs. Treadway would arrive at Shelter Island the day following the wedding and preparations for the same sort of a reception at that time were made.

M. E. Cobb of Putney Falls asks that the following be published "that my many inquiring friends may know why I am not running the grist mill. I took the mill to run four months on shares, and Mr. Reynolds told his patrons that he had let the mill to me. But when I went to take possession Monday morning I found another man in possession, and I was informed that the mill had been rented to him."

A. M. Corser has issued invitations to about 75 young folk to spend their way to his store tomorrow to get a piece of Christmas pie and to have a social chat with Santa Claus. All children are invited to go whether they have received a written invitation or not. They are also invited to write a letter to carry to old Santa, and after Santa has had an opportunity to read them all he will send a Christmas present to the writer of the best letter.

The pipe for the line of hydrants which is to become a part of the fire department of this town has arrived and a part of it is being put in place this week. Only one hydrant will be set this winter on account of the ground being frozen. This hydrant will be located at the side of the main road between the barber shop and Cole's paper mill. It will be connected with the steam pump by six-inch pipe. Steam connection has been made with the pump.

Harry Miller of Westminster West gave an interesting lecture in the town hall Monday evening upon his experiences in the late war with Spain, illustrating it with many excellent stereoscopic views. Mr. Miller was a member of the 21st Maine of the regular army. Mr. Miller gave a vivid description of the scenes on San Juan hill, telling how his canteen was pierced by a Mauser bullet in the thickest of the fight. The lecture deserved a larger audience.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pierce have moved, this week, to Drewsville, N. H. Mr. Pierce has contracted to clear a wood lot there for the Newton steam mill. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Reynolds have also moved there. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce will run a boarding house for the benefit of the men employed by Mr. Pierce. Mrs. Pierce will be assisted by Mrs. Reynolds. It is expected that the job will be about three months. During Mr. Reynolds' absence the grist mill at Putney Falls will be run by Charles Nichols.

Death of Elvira Mrs. H. Puffer.

It is with a feeling of profound sorrow for we record the death of Elvira H. Puffer, wife of Charles L. Puffer, which occurred at her home on Dec. 7, after a brief illness of heart trouble. Mrs. Puffer was born in Chesterfield, June 14, 1849, and Nov. 12, 1869, married Charles L. Puffer. Of this union two children were born. This was a happy union. She was an ideal wife, a loving mother, of a quiet and unassuming manner, a noble character and cheerful disposition, always looking upon the bright side of people and events. Truly it can be said of her "It was good to have her for a friend."

She possessed the faculty of pervading the home atmosphere with a delightful cheer, a subtle charm that only those who have been there can tell. She was a woman of true dignity, of character and bearing. Her loss will be greatly and deeply felt. Words are inadequate to express the love and esteem that this true and noble woman held in the minds and lives of the public. Her only daughter, Florence, was away a few years ago. This was a wound in her mother's heart from which she never recovered. Beside the husband, one son, Warren, and a brother and several sisters remain to cherish her memory.

The love and admiration that the people had for this good and noble wife, mother and friend was fully attested by the vast concourse of people who gathered at her home Saturday at 10 o'clock to pay their last tribute of respect. Rev. Mr. Smith officiated, taking the text which was appropriate to the deceased, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." She was laid to rest by the side of her daughter at Spofford. The floral offerings were grand and immense. The Grange had charge of the services as the deceased was one of the most active members. Her husband being master of Piskane Grange. To the bereaved husband and only son the entire community extend their sympathy.

Notice has been posted for the annual parish meeting to be held at the church here on Monday evening, Jan. 2, at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

Winfield Farr came home from Putney Saturday night for a vacation of two weeks. He has been at work in the Stowell Manufacturing company's shop since last spring.

Christmas exercises will be held at the hall on Friday evening, Dec. 23. The children will furnish a short literary entertainment during the evening before Santa Claus arrives in town.

At the regular meeting of Spafford grange last Saturday evening the 1st and 2nd degrees were conferred upon a class of nine, and a special meeting will be held on Saturday evening, Dec. 17, to confer the 3d and 4th degrees upon the full class of 17, after which the harvest feast with an oyster supper, etc., will be served. At the meeting of Dec. 10 the lecturer brought up for discussion the reports of all those members who had patronized the past season, the sweet corn canning factory at Brattleboro, which made a very interesting meeting, and nearly all seemed in favor of trying to raise sweet corn another year for canning purposes.

BERNARDSTON, MASS.

People were startled Sunday evening in the midst of church services by the cry of "Fire," and adjourned without waiting for the benediction. The fire proved to be in an unused shed at the depot, kindled by a passing freight engine, and its progress was watched with complacency by the townspeople generally. The shed had been far from ornamental, and the depot grounds look much better without it. Mrs. Dickinson's barn caught from flying cinders, but the damage was slight.

A Quiet Springfield Wedding Creates a Sensation.

The marriage in Springfield on Tuesday of William O. Amidon to Miss Minnie Johnson, which was first announced in the city papers Wednesday morning, was a complete surprise to the general public, for though it has been surmised that such an event might occur in the future it was simply a rumor, nothing more. The ceremony was performed by J. G. Dunning, Esq., in the parlors of the Hotel Worthey, and after a short wedding journey the newly-wedded pair are expected to return to Hinsdale. The groom is the youngest son of Hon. C. J. Amidon, and a member of the firm of C. J. Amidon & Son, woolen manufacturers, who have mills both in Hinsdale and Wilton. The bride is a quiet and stylish young lady, who has for some years resided with her mother on Main street and been employed as a weaver in the Amidon mills. There are pretty weavers and pretty weavers as the Hinsdale young men are not slow to find out and the new bride is no exception to that rule.

The groom had reached the age of 35 years, and notwithstanding the wives and arts of the fair sex, had hitherto managed to remain a bachelor. So that this sudden marriage has given his bachelor friends quite a shaking up so that they hardly know "where they are at," and are casting about to see who will go next.

W. O. Amidon is a young man who possesses many noble qualities, impulsive, generous almost to a fault, a leader in everything he undertakes. By his energy and vim he kept Hinsdale from "rusting out" during the dull times. He organized and managed a crack base ball team largely at his own expense, which became famous in all this region, and his easy, affable manners and generous heart have won for him hosts of friends both here and elsewhere.

All the world loves a lover, and the tinge of romance that hovers about this wedding, illustrating as it does that it is the "unexpected that often happens," will ensure a warm welcome for the new bride and groom when they reach these shores, and though it will be a source of regret that it will be too late to lavish upon them the showers of rice which have nearly smothered several bridal parties the past season.

being Miss Bertha Day of Bellows Falls and Webb Hall of Hinsdale, son of Warren Hall.

The bride is a former resident of this town, where her father, O. S. Day, was superintendent of the Brightwood mills. The parents of the groom were in attendance, and also his sisters, Misses Bertha and Mollie, and his brothers, Robert and Clifford, all of Hinsdale. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will live in Bellows Falls, where Mr. Hall, who is a carpenter by trade, has himself built their home. Best wishes for future happiness are extended.

While three valuable horses from the stock farm of J. O. Frost in Vernon, were being transported across the Connecticut river on the ferry boat one day last week, two of them attached to a sled backed against the one in the rear of the boat and pushed him into the river. The horse swam toward the boat, though hampered by the floating ice, and finally one of the boat hands succeeded in grasping the halter and he was towed to the shore. The horse was so chilled that it was with difficulty that he was got into a barn near by, where by vigorous rubbing and stimulants, he finally recovered the use of his legs and the next day was none the worse for his cold bath.

Notable Gathering of the Patriotic Societies.

On Friday evening of last week the Woman's Relief corps assisted by the Henry Johnson post, G. A. R., and Sons of Veterans gave a reception in the Sons of Veterans' hall in honor of Mrs. A. M. D. Alexander, who since the organization of the corps has given it much material benefit. The hall was well filled with members and invited guests, who, after greeting the honored guest, were invited to the dining hall where an elegant supper was served, to which all did ample justice. Returning to the assembly hall, Mrs. Alexander, president of the corps, called the company to order and asked the conductor to escort Mrs. Alexander to the platform. Mrs. Alexander then presented the corps four beautiful silk flags 32 by 48, making a most eloquent speech. Mrs. Lazelle, responded, thanking the donor in behalf of the corps. She then announced that at the last meeting of the corps Mrs. Alexander had been made an honorary member. She then called up the corps to salute their new members. Mrs. Alexander responded very gracefully, accepting the honor. A short literary program was then presented by some of the young people, consisting of music and recitations, after which the company dispersed.

A mass meeting of citizens was held at the town hall last Friday night to consider ways and means toward freeing the toll bridge across the Connecticut river. As a result of the meeting a special town meeting has been called for Saturday, Dec. 24, to take whatever action the voters of the town may deem best. On Jan. 1 next the 50 years expires that were granted the railroad for the taking of toll. The railroad has petitioned the legislature for the right to continue collecting toll and the town will attempt to prevent such action being taken.

NEW HAMPSHIRE NOTES.

Death of Mrs. H. A. Hanaford of Winchester.

Mrs. Mary W. Landerkin, wife of Rev. H. A. Hanaford of Winchester, died in Newton, Mass., Saturday afternoon, after an illness of more than two years with nervous prostration. Mrs. Hanaford was born in Wellfleet, Mass., Dec. 12, 1851, and was married to Rev. H. A. Hanaford at that place in 1874 and since that time had lived in Little Falls, N. Y., Medway, Nantucket, Bedford, and Middleboro, Mass., and Winchester. Mrs. Hanaford came to Winchester with her family in 1888 and had endeared herself to a large circle of friends by her earnestness and faithful work among the people of the town. She was a fine musician and had played the large pipe organ at the church for a number of years, besides assisting in the church work in many other ways. She leaves her husband and a son and daughter.

George H. Eames, Democrat, was re-elected mayor of Keene in the election Tuesday, by a majority of 539 votes over Frank M. Davis, Republican. Mr. Eames received 870 votes and Mr. Davis 331, out of a total of 1201. Mr. Eames's majority last year was 137. The small Republican vote is accounted for in part by the refusal of ex-Mayor Perry, the Republican nominee, to stand as a candidate. In the council the Republicans have made a gain of one and the lower house will stand 14 Republicans and one Democrat.
